To Our Friends and Neighbors:

Again at this Happy Hollday Season we wish to extend our sincere thanks for another year's consideration of our efforts. Also, we want to extend to one and all that old but very meaningful wish: "Merry Christmas and a Healthy and Prosperous New Year." In the coming year we here at The Eyerglades News will make an effort — as we have for more than a quarter of a century — to do those things which will help make our community a better place in which to live. Once more on this glad day we say: Merry Christmas.

Give Breeding Herd Some Protein Feed For Winter Thrift

GAINESVILLE-Lack of pro-GAINESVILLE-Lack of pro-tein is still one of the most common nutritional deficiencies encounter-ed in Florida cattle during the winter, according to Dr. T. J. Cun-ha head of the animal husbandry and nturition department with the Florida Agricultural Experiment Station.

"One of the best investments a cattleman can make during the winter", says Dr. Cunha, "is to feed his cattle the extra protein supplement they need."

Homemadé Treats Make Special Gifts

The Christmas season is tradi-tionally marked by tasty things to eat. And good foods made in your kitchen add a traditional note to the celebration. Such gifts say "Merry Christmas" with an espe-cially warm and personal touch. From a practical standpoint, they're easy on the pocketbook, too.

Many homemakers with a German heritage have treasured family recipes for beautiful marzipan candy of lebkuchen, peffernusse, and springerle cookies, for instance, that are perfect for sharing with friends at holiday time.

External Parasites Constant Threat To Livestock In State

GAINESVILLE-External livestock parasites are a problem throughout the year in Florida, even though they may appear sea-sonal due to larger numbers noted in warmer months.

Dr. L. E. Swanson, parasitologist with the Florida Agricultural Experiment Station, says the more important pests include hornflies, lice, ticks, mosquitoes, cattle grubs, stableflies, deerflies and horesflies.

Adequate control measures often depend on proper application equip-ment, says the parasitologist. For a large number of cattle, power sprayers that operate at 100 to 200 pounds of pressure per square inch are generally most suitable. The sprayer should be equipped with an agitator to keep the spray will mixed and with an adjustable spray nozzle.

A small portable power rig can be used for treating a few animals. Knarsack or small air-pressure sprayers may be used, but it is more difficult to thoroughly wet animals with long, dense hair. Dr. Swanson says some of these sprayers do not have agitators and require occasional shaking to assure properly mixed sprays. This is especially important with wettable powders.

Several species of lice cause animals to become emaciated. The pests often cause animals to rub gainst trees and fences and to lick themselves. According to James Brogdon, entomologist with the Florida Agricultural Extension Service, toxaphene and lindane can be used to control lice. He recommends toxaphene at the rate of 10 pounds of 40 percent wettable powder per 100 gallons of water; lindane at the rate of one pound of 25 percent wettable powder per 100 gallons of water.

Brogdon says these materials may also be used to control ticks. (Continued on Page 6.)

Control Pests Now And Have Beautiful Ornamental Plants

GAINESVILLE—Failure to con-trol insects in the fall is often the cause of poor showing ornamentals in the spring, according to Dr. L. C. Kuitert, entomologist with the Kuitert. Florida Agricultural Experiment Station.

Dr. Kuitert says ornamental Station.

Dr. Kuitert says ornamental plants are subject to attack by a variety of fall insect pests. "Probably the most important group of insect pests attacking ornamentals are the scale insects," he adds.

The tea scale is an important pest of camellias. It can be recog-nized by the whitish, cottony mass on the lower sides of camellia leaves. The insect is vrey small and several hundred are frequently present on a single leaf.

In addition to camilias, tea scale

In addition to camilias, tea scale infects Chinese and youpon holly, satsuma, tea plant, dogwood, euo-mymus, bottlebrush, and mistlettee. Chinese holly is a favored host of tea scale and is often a source of tea scale and is often a source of reinfestation on camellias. Holly and other host plants should be sprayed just as regularly and thoroughly as the camellias.

Dr. Kultert says Florida red scale is another serious pest of camellias, as well as dooryard citrus, camphor, holly, ligustrum and other ornamentals.

Some species of scale insects infest only the foilage of plants, othern are found only on branches, while some attack both foilage and branches. Most woody ornamentals are subject to attack by one or more species of scale insects. Other pests include "whiteflies, aphids, thrips, lacebuge and spider mites. Dr. Kuitert suggests treatment of all plants for insect control. In addition to over-all treatment, it may be necessary to treat individual plants from time to time.

Spray materials recommended for general insect control are mal-athion and oil emulsion.

Lindane and toxaphene are effective also against hornflies. These blood suckers breed in fresh manure and are found primarily withers and backs of cattle. They are more numerous on dark-colored

Another pest of cattle is the mite. Mites burrow in the skin and can cause severe irritation. For control, Gorgdon recommends lindane at the rate of two pounds of 25 percent wettable powder per 100 gallons of water. Thorough Thorough wetting of the animal is esesntial. Repeat applications may be neces-sary. The entomologist warns against application of this concentration to calves under six months of age. Residue controls do not al-low application of this concentra-tion within 30 days of slaughter.

No effective control measure own for horseflies, deerflies, and stableflies. Pyrethrins plus syner-gist sprays applied frequently to animals as a repellent may give some measure of control, but they are quite expensive. Brogdon says organic thiocyanates (lethane or thanite) sprays may be of some value, but have to be used frequently.

Some measure of stable or dogfly control may be obtained by spray-ing buildings ond other structures with 40 pounds of 50 percent DDT chlordane or toxaphene per 100 gallons of water. This matreial should not be sprayed on animals, feed or watering troughs, or uten-

Grubs appear in the backs of cattle in November, December and January, but the flies lay eggs dur-ing February, March and April, depending on weather conditions. For control, Brogdon recommends 71/2 pounds of derris or cube powder containing 5 percent rotenone per gallons of water. He says this may be added to other sprays. Treat animals when grubs first appear and retreat at 30-day inter-

Many After-Holiday Uses for Family Tree

There are a number of uses to which you can put your Christmas tree after it has served its purpose in the home tree after it has served its purpose in the home.

You can cut off the longer branches and "plant" them as windbreaks to protect outdoor plantings such as low-growing boxwood, azalea, yew, rhododendron and juniper. Little teepees can be built around exposed shrubs and tender plants. This will protect them from bitting, drying winds and prevent snow and ice from accumulating and bending the plants out of shape.
Other branches curved end up

Other branches curved end up over flower beds when the ground is exposed will prevent heaving of soils during alternate freezing and thawing. Heaving may force bulbs and roots of perennials from the ground.

ground.

The entire tree may be used as a bird feeder in the back yard. It may be either anchored securely or fastened to a fence. Pieces of suct tied to its branches and a container of water nearby will provide a constant supply of food for your feathered friends.

CHRISTMAS TREES

Tradition has it that Christmas trees were first used in Germany when Christian missionaries chopped down trees worshiped by the pagans and made a decorated tree part of the Christian celebration. Earliest records of the use of Christmas trees in the United States indicate that German immigrants, who wanted to preserve migrants, who wanted to preserve the type of Christmas they had in Germany, were responsible for popularizing the use of trees in this country.

Our Christmas Replaced Early Pagan Festivals

Long before the birth of Christ, the Greeks, Romans, Saxons and Scandinavians were taking part in December festivals.

Sending Cards Is Old Holiday Tradition

The custom of sending Christ-mas cards has grown so popular through the years that each year an average of one and one-half bil-lion cards are mailed. Some historians suggest that the idea of sending Christmas cards originated with school boys away from home, who wrote their letters on fancy paper and in fancy writ-ing.

William Egley sent out a Christmas greeting on a fancy card in 1842 which showed his artistic and engraving talent. The card carried the message, "A Merry Christmas and Happy New Year."

In 1846, Henry Cole, a middle class Englishman, sent Christmas cards which carried the wood of and which carried the message "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year."

The cards brought fame and popularity to Henry Cole, but it was decades, before Christmas decades, before Christmas and decades and the cardial through the cards were sold generally.
